

Mission Statement

The Eastern Surfing Association (ESA) is dedicated to the sport of amateur surfing, to the operation of a program of amateur competition for surfers of all ages and abilities, and to the establishment and preservation of free access to a clean shoreline and ocean environment.

About the ESA

The ESA is the largest amateur surfing association in the United States. It was founded in 1967, by East Coast surfers to promote, preserve and protect the sport of surfing on the East Coast. Our family-oriented programs promote a healthy, active lifestyle and it is not uncommon to find two or three generations of the same family involved as members of the ESA, actively competing in our program. The ESA's activities are organized in a total of 24 districts, which extend along nearly 2,000 miles of coastline, stretching from Maine through the Gulf Coast of Florida and the Great Lakes. Each district's programs are developed and operated by volunteer directors and a staff of other volunteers who assist them in this task.

Legacy

For over 45 years the ESA has been committed to amateur surfing and environmental awareness. The success of past competitors, not only in the world of professional surfing but in all walks of life, bears testament to the core principals of the ESA.

Eleven-time ASP World Champion Kelly Slater, 2001 World Champion CJ Hogood, and four-time World Champions Frieda Zamba and Lisa Andersen, all honed their formative competitive skills through the ESA. The ESA is understandably proud of the heights these athletes and numerous others have achieved in the world of professional surfing. By promoting the principals of sportsmanship, competition and environmental awareness, the ESA looks forward to the next 45 years of champions in surfing and life.

Community

The ESA is the only effective organized voice on the East Coast, speaking politically and legally for the interests of East Coast surfers in assuring free public access to a clean beach and clean ocean environment. This effort becomes increasingly important as population increases cause greater competition for the limited areas of open beach still remaining. Without this effort, surfers would find themselves faced with fences, laws limiting or banning the sport of surfing, and would find themselves pushed into smaller and more crowded surfing areas. The ESA has traditionally responded to these efforts to limit surfing with political activities on a local level. When needed, the ESA engages in legal efforts directed by a staff of attorneys who volunteer their time without charge to the ESA.

Scholarship

The ESA Marsh Scholarship program began in 1981 to recognize and honor the accomplishments of the Marsh family of North Carolina and, in particular, Mike Marsh, who set a fine example for students everywhere by earning his law degree while simultaneously and successfully waging his own private battle with cancer. The grants are awarded annually to ESA members on the basis of academics and citizenship rather than athletic ability. To date, the ESA has awarded well over $100,000 in scholarships to deserving surfing scholars.

THE FIRST. THE LARGEST. ESTABLISHED 1967.

“The ESA, for me, was a huge platform that allowed me to start setting my goals high. As a young surfer, I had to work my way through the ESA ranks to earn a shot to surf with and against some of my heroes. Doc Couture* was very supportive of us all, and I will always be thankful for what he and the ESA established and nurtured for amateur surfing on the East Coast. I later realized the ESA’s program for success in the water, and the hard work and goal setting I applied to my surfing, translated easily to many other facets of my life. For me, it all started with the ESA, and I owe many thanks to Doc and the dedicated ESA Directors that made it happen.”

On the Beach

One of the primary activities of the ESA is its program of amateur competition for surfers of all ages and abilities. With a history of over 45 years of success, ESA contests are organized at the grass roots, district level on a year-round basis. The ESA holds approximately 200 contests in 15 eastern states each year. Most of these events average about 75 competitors, with our larger districts running local events of 100 or more competitors. These are district level events, and each event includes divisions for men and women in numerous age divisions.

Within these contests, amateur surfers compete in ability groupings ranging from novice to the most advanced competitors. The athletes are divided among a series of age groupings for both men and women, ranging from Menehunes, a Polynesian word meaning "little people," under 11 years of age, through Legends, ages 55 plus. Competition event categories include shortboard, longboard and bodyboard. The ESA also recently added stand up paddleboard (SUP) as a competitive category.

In the spring of each year the ESA runs three Regional Championships - with an approximate total of 600 competitors, who have qualified through the local district events. In September of each year the ESA holds the annual Easterns® with approximately 300 elite athletes who have qualified through the Regional Championships.

ESA REGIONALS & EASTERNS® CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS

The ESA offers four championship events each year. Three regionals are held in the spring in which competitors compete to qualify for the Easterns® that is held each September in the Outer Banks of North Carolina. All local and championship ESA events include people of all ages and are family-friendly.

Regionals

Approximately 200 competitors from each region compete in their respective ESA Regional event every spring. The regional events are three to four days long, including weekends. There is a live webcast throughout each regional event. The Northeast Region includes New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and the Great Lakes. The Mid-Atlantic Region is comprised of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. The ESA Southeast Region includes Georgia and the entire state of Florida.

Easterns®

Easterns® is the "Best of the Best" of the ESA. The nearly 300 elite competitors strive to be named Easterns® Champion in all 25 ESA competition divisions. Each competitor has qualified at their regional event and are invited to compete with other top-rated ESA competitors from all over the East Coast. The Easterns® event is a seven-day event running Sunday through Saturday, beginning with the adult divisions and ending with the exciting finals for the youth and open divisions. A live webcast is provided each day during the Easterns® competition.

ESA's live webcast throughout the championship events gains exposure for sponsors to tens of thousands worldwide. Hundreds of spectators on the beach each day will allow sponsors to provide samples, product demonstrations, give-aways and other product marketing to the masses.
